Now that the roads are wet again it will be a good thing to drag them as soon as they begin to dry. The best time to drag a road is, not while it is wet and sloshy, nor when it is dry and crumbly, but just at the time when the mud is about as stiff as dough. It is then plastic and the fine dust or sediment being wet, forms a hard surface very much like cement which easily sheds the next rain where the road is properly shaped up and drained.

Cromer who in his usual happy and spicy style held the attention and interest of his audiences as few men can on occasions of this kind. The band furnished excellent music throughout the evening.

"THE SOCIAL HIGHWAYMAN" AT OPERA HOUSE, JUNE 20

The story of "The Social Highwayman" is that of Curtis Jaffray, whose boy ideal is Claude DuVal, who stole from the rich to give to the poor. Curtis was the offspring of a mesalliance which resulted in his being brought up in such bitter poverty that his mother, before his birth, was driven to thievery to obtain food. When Curtis reached the age of twelve the parents were horrified at the discovery that he had inherited through prenatal influences a tendency to steal. How in later years, when he inherited the title and estates of his grandfather, the fashionable stratum of society is startled by a series of daring thefts, his social secretary kills the Countess Rossi, his wife who deserted him in former years, and later kills himself, declaring in his dying words that he committed the mystifying thefts, is all excellently portrayed in this melodrama in which is interspersed one of the sweetest romances ever filmed. It is a sociological play different from the rest and one that is bound to please. To be shown at the Opera House, Tuesday, June 20.
